Valentine Display

The Villa Rica Public Library will display the vintage Valentine Cards from the Pearl Lanier Collection for the month of February.

The cards date back to 1918 when Miss. Pearl Lanier was a student. In 1925, Miss. Pearl would become a teacher at the Center Point School in Temple. Some of the cards are from her students to the teacher. The lattice cards in the shape of hearts were hand made by the students.

Germany was the first to begin embossing the images on Valentine cards. Germany also implemented the honeycomb theme cards. Later they would be printed in America.

Richard Cadbury, a candy maker in 1861 England came up with the idea to package small chocolate candies in heart shape boxes. The idea was embraced and would become a world wide trend. The Whitman's Sampler box was released in 1912 in America and went on to become the best selling box of chocolates in the United States.

Presenting roses on Valentine's Day began in the 17th century. The legend has it that the rose was the favorite flower of Venus, the Goddess Love because they stood for strong feelings.

Surprisingly, jewelry and diamonds specifically as a Valentine's Day gift is a very new idea. It started in the 20th century with DeBeers Jewelry Company who began associating giving diamonds with the act of love.

Not to be out done, Kay Jewelry reminds us that every kiss begins with "k".

It wasn't until the 1980's when we saw mass advertising of diamonds for Valentine's Day. Despite only being a thirty something-year tradition, today diamond jewelry remains a major player for Valentine's day spending.

The Warren P. Sewell Library in Bowdon is presenting the Miss. Madison Turner Valentine Card Collection from the Bowdon Area Historical Society Museum.
